BIOGRAPHY

"Hubris." is a Swiss post-rock band originating from Fribourg. Formed in 2014, the instrumental quartet is characterised by their original style which blends an experimental touch of post-rock, electronica atmosphere and some elements of the metal scene.

They draw their inspiration from bands like Jakob, This Will Destroy You, Tides of Man or Jon Hopkins amongst others. With their style evoking introspection, hubris. characterise themselves with the length of their compositions, allowing a range of evolving emotions through softness and power.

Sometimes compared with other artists like Sigur Rós or Long Distance Calling, the band calls forth emotions of its audience due to a heterogeneous musical landscape mixing poetic ambiance and raw energy.

On the 2nd of May 2015, hubris. released their first opus "Emersion" along-side the New Zealander post-rock band Jakob. The album was well-received by various medias outlets, obtaining several reviews from webzines and newspaper as well as being aired on multiple radio stations.

In April 2017, hubris. came out with a second album called "Apocryphal Gravity". This album sports a brand new set of colours. Their musical approach took a new turn with a drastic change in their method of composing. The band sets forth a musical style rarely explored to this day, breaching pre-established post-rock conventions by incorporating electronica influences. This album was critically acclaimed and aroused the interest of more than half a million eager listeners on the internet as well as being the subject of many press articles.

The band is currently back in the studios preparing their third album « Metempsychosis » which will be released the 4th of October 2019.

REVIEWS

« We are musicaly near of Leech, Sigur Rós or Long Distance Calling. Hubris has its proper identity, something which is not given to all the bands in this particular musical genre. With a sound reaching its ambitions, 'Emersion' deserve its place in the pictures of post-rock.

Daily-rock.com

« The rest of this album is just as skillful. This band plays all across the post rock smorgasbord, rather than sticking to classic tricks and compartmentalizing their music. The result is something fresh, young, hopeful and dedicated with immediately captured my heart and mind. I'm calling it now: this is the breakout post rock act of the year. »

Heavyblogisheavy.com

« The album shows extremely wonderful melodies and denotes a band absolutly in tune with each member. This album hits you from the very first listen, but the experience continues to improve at every further listening. »

Apocryphal Gravity - 2017

This second album blends different ambiances borrowed from various musical styles, though the genre "post-rock" best describes the overall feeling of the music. The sheer power of metal, the soothing tones of post-rock and the groove and vibe of electronica and pop-rock all blended together in order to create the unique touch of Apocryphal Gravity.

The band was keen on incorporating different styles to deliver a new facet to the genre they took an interest in so far.

The album was recorded and mixed at La Fonderie studios in Fribourg by Nathan Gros and mastered by Grégoire Pasquier.
